What does respect mean to you?

RESPECT

'I accept being held accountable for safety'

To return home safely every day, our safety leaders must ensure a socially safe and respectful working environment, so holding each other accountable and being held accountable is accepted.

A safety leader ensures a socially safe and respectful working environment by:

Using clear standards of behaviour.

Agreeing how you will work together respectfully.

Listening and not judging.

Setting a good example by holding someone accountable, but also by accepting that you yourself will be held accountable.
